

The Coaching Game is a powerful experiential tool for personal and professional development. It has no winners or losers, but rather stimulates thinking, discussion, and cooperation. Its uses are limitless and can be adapted to various audiences: individuals, teams, and organizations.

The Coaching Game brings together in one “package” 65 Life Topics that are universal to all contexts. Each topic is presented via various media, both textual and visual, including pictures, stories, quotes, and thought-stimulating questions. The link between topics, pictures, words and questions allows you to facilitate processes that lead to awareness and action by generating new points of view.

What will you learn?

- The theories behind The Coaching Game and its four main components
- How to tailor The Coaching Game to fit your facilitation or coaching style
- How to adapt The Coaching Game to any learning or coaching objectives including life, business, and leadership processes
- How to create new and innovative ways to use The Coaching Game in both personal and professional situations
- How to use The Coaching Game as both an icebreaker and a breakthrough-maker for working with yourself, one on one, and with groups

What will you receive?

As well as engaging in a unique learning experience, you will receive your own copy of The Coaching Game toolkit. The Coaching Game features an eco-friendly design - the result of extensive thought and attention to detail. Packaged in a special fabric, the game’s materials and appearance are an experience in themselves that have inspired enthusiastic responses and have won the game recognition at design and innovation exhibits worldwide. The Coaching Game has been a huge success in Israel, USA, UK and Europe, offering you a must have business tool.

Who will benefit?

This professional practitioner workshop is ideal for facilitators, coaches, teachers, counselors, trainers, consultants, and other OD professionals who are ready to expand their toolkits and introduce an intuitive catalyst into their work processes.

About the Presenter

Yaron Golan is a business/life coach who resides in Tel Aviv, Israel. He and his partner, Efrat Shani, responded to the needs of their individual and corporate clients by creating one of the most elegant and powerful development tools available in the human performance field today. Points of You - The Coaching Game debuted in Israel in April 2007 and is now being made available worldwide. Yaron’s Toronto engagement is only one of two this year in North America.
